Overview What is CBD? Symptoms & Clinical Findings Treatment & Consequential Conditions Worker Community Resources Peer-Reviewed Publications & Feedback

The information on this website was put together with the assistance of a qualified team of medical professionals who are experts in the study of Chronic Beryllium Disease and Beryllium related illnesses. We made every effort to be as accurate and comprehensive as possible, and we will also make every effort to update this website as new information comes to light. However, given the large number of medical journals, and other peer reviewed publications that may release studies and information related to Beryllium, we have developed this feedback page.

This page is intended to be a place where individuals can submit relevant medical literature from peer reviewed publications, which provided additional information that we can add to the website. Please keep in mind that a "peer reviewed publication" is one where all of the articles or papers are submitted to a panel of qualified experts to review and approve before publication. Medical and academic journals are typically peer reviewed, whereas something like a newspaper article would not be peer reviewed.

When you submit information below, please try to be as thorough as possible. You will not be able to cut and paste the entire article into the space below, but if you can provide the title, author, the journal it was published in, and the location you found it (web link, etc.), we should be able to locate it.

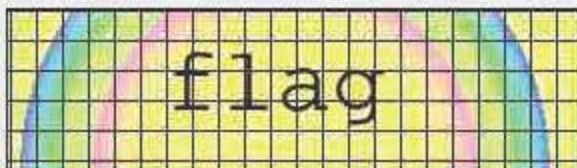

If you submit information for our consideration, you have the option to remain anonymous so you don't have to enter your name and email; you only need to enter the list of suggested publications and hit the SUBMIT button. However if you do decide to provide your contact information, we will be able to acknowledge the receipt of your email, but will not use your address in any other way.
